Speakers See Many Benefits from Meetings

President Adair of the N. E. A., Henry J. Allen, Governor Baker and Others Write On Benefits To Be Derived From Teachers' Meetings.

Several of the speakers on the coming Association program were asked to write their own views on the subject, "What Benefits Should a Teacher Expect From Attending a Teachers' Meeting?" Below is some of their replies.

By Miss Cornelia S. Adair, President N. E. A.

This is an age of conventions. Everybody likes to attend the conventions of his own kind. There he (or she) meets old friends and makes new; he hears of their experiments and their successes; he gives much but he gets more.

At teachers' conventions our leaders "exchange frontier thinking on educational problems" and the group profits by it.

Important questions concerning our professional life are brought up and debated. Plans are made for solving these problems of tenure, retirement, teaching training and so on.

In short if we wish to keep abreast of the educational profession and to share the responsibility for its progress we must attend our own conventions.

By SAM A. BAKER, Governor of Missouri

Every teacher owes to him or herself to enjoy a certain amount of recreation which carries with it an opportunity to get inspiration and a few facts that will carry over in to the actual work in the classroom. There is no better agency for accomplishing these results than the general teachers' meeting. The benefits the teacher will receive may be stated as follows:

1. Enlarges the teacher's acquaintance with others having a broad experience and wide professional viewpoint.

2. Serves as a clearing house for the dissemination of the most advanced ideas of educational practice.

3. Inspires the teacher to do better work by learning the facts concerning the results obtained by teachers who are recognized leaders in their communities.

4. Develops right ideals and attitudes toward the teaching profession, and hence a higher level of achievement.

5. Lifts the teacher out of the groove of the self satisfied and shows them a better way.

These are a few of the benefits teachers will receive by attending general or special teachers' meetings and no one desiring to progress along professional lines will deny himself these benefits.

By Henry J. Allen

It seems to me that there are no meetings throughout the year of such definite significance as those held by the State Teachers' Association of the various states. I have attended them (Continued on Page 2)

PRESIDENT LAMKIN
A. W. Mo. State Teachers College
"Dr. A. O. Thomas, president, was at his best every time, rising to great heights on the closing evening. Vol. W. Lamkin was, perhaps, the high spot on the program. It was an occasion such as few Americans have had, and he rose to the occasion brilliantly." From the Journal of Education editorial on the International Educational Convention held at Toronto, Canada, during August.

"Lefty" Davis Starts as New Bearcat Coach

Former Missouri Wesleyan Mentor Now Helping Coach Lawrence.—Work Started This Week on New Athletic Field.

Earl E. "Lefty" Davis, former athletic coach of Missouri Wesleyan College at Cameron, who was coaching at that school while Coach Lawrence was a student there, has been elected assistant Bearcat coach here and arrived this week to assume his new duties.

The services of Mr. Davis, who has had wonderful success in coaching football teams at Missouri Wesleyan, McKendree College and Centenary, are secured only through the personal relations which exist between him and the Bearcat mentor. Mr. Davis has been in business in Florida since 1925.

Their personal relations began when Mr. Lawrence was a student at Missouri Wesleyan, where Davis' teams did not lose a game in five years, and were furthered when both attended the Illinois coaching school in 1920.

Mr. Davis coached Missouri Wesleyan football teams the years of 1917-18, 19, 20, 21, 22, going five years without a defeat except one to the University of Missouri.

Davis coached football at McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill., in 1923 and 1924 and had phenomenal success there, winning the championship of the "Little 19" in 1924, his team going through the season without a defeat.

Early in 1925 he succeeded Bo McMillen at Centenary College. That year, 1925, Centenary lost only to Tulane, 14 to 0, for the championship of the South.

Davis played football at Transylvania College.

Davis will assist Lawrence with both the backfield and the line. He succeeds Paul R. Jones, who resigned to enter the law practice.

St. Joseph Director on Commerce Program

L. B. Clough, Managing director of the St. Joseph chamber of commerce, will speak at the District Teacher's Association next week. He used to be secretary of the Chamber of Commerce in Omaha, Nebraska. He specializes in the industrial relationships between city and the industries. Mr. Clough is a life wire, well acquainted with the modern problems and is a man who is very interested in furthering the laboratory trips to the St. Joseph industries by our College students. He has had splendid success in his work and an interesting address is expected from him.

Girls Start Intra-Mural Sports Teams

The girls' athletic department started Tuesday enrolling for all sophomore, senior, and junior girls who will play soccer.

Last years' freshmen who will play soccer are: Sarah Davis, Kathleen Jones, Elsie Saville, and Helen McManis.

Last years' sophomores who will play are: Florence Sent, Virginia Dean, and Ruth Dean.

These seven last year's girls will form the backbone of this years soccer team. Soccer is now being stressed by Dr. F. S. Curtis, state physical education director.

It is being taught in the five sections of outdoor sports and it is thought by the physical education instructors that a large number of new girls will come out for this game.

Soccer is also one of the sports in which points are given toward intra-mural athletic awards.

WHO'S WHO Among the Speakers

Never before have the officers of the Northwest Missouri Teachers Association been able to gather such a notable array of speakers for a single meeting as they have this year. It was possible this year to arrange such an outstanding program only by the untiring efforts of the Association officers and administration of the College together with the fact that they began last spring to secure talent for the programs. A glance at the program on this page is ample proof of the great number of educational leaders and able speakers that will give their best during the coming sessions. The following is a brief, "Who's Who" of the speakers:

Cornelia S. Adair

For the first time the National Education Association has elevated to its presidency—the highest gift that American educators can bestow—a classroom teacher. At Seattle this honor came to Cornelia S. Adair without contest and by unanimous choice. It came as wholehearted recognition of her fine spirit and faithful service to the Association and to the profession. It is significant that a classroom teacher should have risen to this high place. It calls attention to the worth of teaching in a new way. It may help to realize in a new way. It may help to realize that the leadership of children is the supreme service of education. In the nature of the case but few teachers in a million can be widely known. By custom the honor is alternately bestowed upon a man and a woman, so that but one woman can be elected every two years. By another custom, less fixed but still forceful, this office falls successively to different branches of the profession. Now for the first time it has come to the most numerous and important branch of all—the teacher in the classroom.

President Adair brings to her new opportunity the aspirations and hope of fresh contact with children. Her administration will be great because of simple devotion to the central and abiding things for which the Association stands—the welfare of childhood, the child-centered school, community ideals, and practices fit to pass on to children, professional organizations enlisting increasing numbers of teachers, democracy within the profession, teachers giving themselves to the larger problems of the profession as they now do to the sacred duties of the schoolroom.

President Adair was born in Virginia, the state that has furnished more than its share of Presidents. Miss Adair has grown into womanhood and professional achievement in Richmond—a city whose culture reaches back into the finest and richest periods of the race, a pioneer American community, trade center of the new world, cradle of literature and statercraft, home of Poe and Patrick Henry, still vibrant with the (Continued on Page 3)

Association of N.W. Teachers Is 10 Years Old

Present Association Was "Born" In Maryville, Nov. 1, 1917.—Has Enjoyed Steady, Substantial Growth and Now Leads In Membership.

The present organization of the Northwest Missouri Teachers' Association was "born" November 1, 1917 at the Fifth District Normal School at Maryville. At the meeting of the state association that year the plan was made to have eight divisional districts of the state, one in each of the Normal districts and one each in St. Joseph, Kansas City and St. Louis. Resolutions to this effect were passed at the state meeting and a committee headed by former president Ira K. Richardson of the Fifth District Normal school was appointed to organize the teachers in the fifth district. Dr. Richardson then appointed county and city superintendents of the district as delegates and the first meeting was held November 1, 1917, and the present organization was formed with constitution and by-laws drawn up.

The first officers were elected for the new organization under the adopted constitution on October 24, 1918. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, A. Boyd, Albany; First vice-president, George N. Bensley, Liberty; Second vice-president, Dr. S. E. Davis, Maryville; Third vice-president, Ella K. Sutton, Bethany; Secretary, C. A. Hawkins, Maryville; and Treasurer, Elizabeth Brainerd, Trenton. The executive committee was composed of W. R. Lowry, Grant City, I. M. Gallatin, Chillicothe and E. L. Birkhead, Gower.

Among the speakers at the first meeting were: Superintendent H. B. Wilson of Topeka, Kansas; President Cameron Harmon of Missouri Wesleyan College; P. P. Callaway, state inspector of high schools; Dr. S. E. Davis, now president of the Dillon (Montana) Normal School and Superintendent J. J. Cammack of Kansas City.

The association has enjoyed a very healthy growth since its inception in 1917. On September 28 of 1925, the membership enrolled was 1989, and comparative enrollment figures with the other districts at this time showed the Northwest Association to be first in enrollment. In 1926 there were over 2,800 registered in this district. One membership enrolls the holder in this association and the state and county associations and entitles him to "School and Community," a state educational magazine published at Columbia, Mo.

Bearcats Win York Opener, Jewell Next

A Blocked Kick, An Intercepted Pass and Triple Pass Spells 20 to 0 Victory For S. T. C.—Homecoming Game Next Friday.

With the first game of the season safely tucked away by a 20 to 0 score at the expense of the blue and white grid-ers of York (Nebr.) College Friday, the Bearcats are already looking ahead to the tussle with "Dad" Bowles "Big Red" team here next Friday for the annual homecoming game.

The Bearcats displayed enough punch in pinches to put over three touchdowns after an intercepted pass, a blocked kick and triple pass but they still lack considerable polish of a finished aggregation which will be necessary to cope with William Jewell or the M. L. A. A. teams. But with another week of good weather Coaches Lawrence and Davis intend to iron out many of the apparent deficiencies in the Bearcat attack and defense.

The S. T. C. team tallied its first touchdown in the initial quarter when Ogden blocked a kick, caught the ball and ran five yards over the goal line Smith kicked goal for the extra point.

The second counter came in the last period but the close of the third quarter saw Ogden recover a fumble and run twenty yards to place the ball on the two-yard line before the whistle blew. Masters then took it and put it over on a line plunge. Smith kicked goal for the fourteenth point.

The last touchdown came about four minutes before the final whistle after York had made a poor kick in midfield and Willoughby received a triple pass of ten yards and ran it thirty to the ten yard line before being downed. After an unsuccessful line buck Smith twirled another short pass to Willoughby who stepped over the goal line without being touched. Smith failed to kick goal for the twenty-first point.

York was never in any danger of scoring although figures on the game showed that they gained 66 yards in (Continued on Page Six.)

Speakers See Many Benefits from Meeting

As I have attended lawyers' meetings, bankers' meetings and editors' meetings, I believe the thoroughness with which the teachers hold to the constructive purposes of their meetings makes them of the utmost professional importance. In addition to the definite education that comes from the conferences and lectures there is even the greater benefit that comes from the mingling of the teachers, the comparison of their problems and the interchange of their ideas.

By Miss Genevieve Turk
President Mo. Teachers Ass'n.

I—The pleasure and profit of getting out of the daily routine and seeing what is going on in the world outside.

II—The personal satisfaction and sense of dignity which comes from feeling oneself a part of a big and important movement which is vital to public welfare.

This will help more than anything else to overcome the loneliness of the isolated teacher.

III—The inspiration received from personal contact with others who are facing similar problems.

These social contacts and personal conferences are often of more immediate value than the program.

IV—The inspiration and growth received through hearing educational leaders discuss educational problems and purposes from new viewpoints and a broader outlook.

V—A better understanding of the state and local problems and policies in order to be able to discuss them with patrons and help build up a public opinion which will be intelligent and forward looking.

VI—All the above combine to develop that professional attitude and outlook which is essential to educational progress.

The fundamental purpose of teacher's meetings is the building up of the professional spirit in the individual teacher and the establishment of professional co-operation throughout the teaching body.

By State Superintendent Lee

Possibly the most important thing for the teachers to keep in mind and continually work toward is making teaching a profession. The taxpayers will never be able to receive one hundred cents worth of service for every dollar expended, the boys and girls will never be able to attend the best school possible, and the teachers will never be able to render the greatest amount of service until teaching is a profession. By attending teachers' meetings we come in contact with our fellow teachers, learn something of their problems, have a better understanding of our own problems, as well as theirs, and have a more sympathetic education and the work we are doing.

By Dr. Wm. S. Gray

It seems to me that the benefits which a teacher should secure from attending teachers' meetings are threefold:

a. Renewing acquaintance with professional friends.

b. Learning through others of constructive work in the classroom.

c. Hearing from the platform of progressive tendencies in the solution of classroom problems.

By W. P. Dearing

1. An enlarged group of friends in professional circles.

2. A rapid survey of the main currents of thought in the field of modern education.

3. A new inspiration to do better work because of contact with teachers of wider experience, greater vision and stronger faith.

4. A definite rededication to the task of giving to America a finer type of manhood and womanhood through the forces which operate in the school room.

5. A keener appreciation of the function of teaching, as honored by the Master Teacher, whom Pestalozzi called "the only teacher," and whose teaching objective as stated by himself was, "I am come that ye might have life, and that ye might have it more abundant."

Bob Hill of M. U. May Talk to Alumni

Bob Hill, popular alumni recorder of the University of Missouri, has been invited to come to Maryville next Friday to speak at the "Dutch Feed" luncheon of the S. T. C. Alumni Association. C. alumni, who are planning to attend this meeting are asked to send reservation to Mr. Solomon or Miss James. Miss Viola Barber, of Mound City is president and Leslie G. Dean Johnson Wins Student Election

Is Elected President of Student Government Association—Susie Hankins Is Elected Vice-President.

Dean Johnson, of Ridgeway, was elected president of the Student Body Association for the next year, at the annual election held last week. The new vice-president of the body is Susie Hankins, of Osborn.

The expected political storm failed to break and the voting was carried off in a quiet fashion. It was a contrast to last year's election and of the race between Yeo and Wyman.

The polls opened at 8 o'clock Friday morning and closed at 4:20 that afternoon. The voting was conducted by the class in citizenship. Mr. Wells, chairman, said that there was very little electioneering and no demonstration for either candidate.

Johnson was opposed by Clyde Rowland, but Rowland withdrew early in the race announcing that he was president of another organization, and that working in the library took all of his spare time.

Miss Hankins was opposed for the vice-presidential chair by Homer Richmond of Grant City.

A check on the figures showed that some 550 students took advantage of their right to vote.

Johnson has held positions of prominence and has long been active in the activities of the College. Last year he represented the Junior class as representative to the Council and was athletic editor of the "Tower", the College annual publication. He is also a member of the Mathematics and Science Club.

"Susie" Hankins was vice-president of the governing body at the Residence Hall last year, and also a member of the Y. W. C. A. and the Dramatics Club.

Couch Lawrence has just received a letter from him asking where the Bearcat uniforms were purchased. "They were the best-looking we saw at the tournament in Kansas City," wrote Comegys.

echoing words familiar to every school boy, "Give me liberty or give me death." To women like Miss Adair, Richmond owes a debt which it has gladly recognized by giving her full leave of absence for the year that she may give all to the service of the Association.

Ravel has a president of the Association come into office with a fuller knowledge of its affairs than has Miss Adair. She was elected treasurer in 1920 and has served continuously since then either as treasurer or member of the official boards. Living within a few hours of Washington she has been especially close to the Association during its years of rapid expansion. Miss Adair secured her education in the elementary and high schools of Richmond, and has a bachelor's degree earned at the College of William and Mary—a school mellow with the age that it shares with Harvard, Yale, and Columbia, and more recently presided over by that earnest worker in the National Education Association Dr. J. A. C. Chandler. Miss Adair's education has laid tribute on the very atmosphere of Richmond, on many books and a multitude of friends, on the very atmosphere of Richmond, on many books and a multitude of friends, on extensive travel, and on companionship with men and women of large affairs.

Miss Adair's eventual professional career is rich in achievement. She has led in her state in the movements for teacher retirement, teacher participation, equal pay for men and women, and other forward movements. She has been an active officer in the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and has served as president of the National League of Classroom Teachers. Her gracious address of welcome at the World Federation Conference in Toronto extended her circle of friends to the countries of the world.

President Adair will speak Friday morning.

Henry J. Allen

Henry J. Allen, Wichita, Kansas, well known author, editor and journalist will speak to the teachers Saturday morning on the subject "Our World Neighbors."

Mr. Allen has for a great many years been editor of the paper he now owns and operates "The Wichita Daily Beacon."

Last year he was director of Journalism on the Floating University which made a tour around the world. Mr. Allen has written for many outstanding magazines, such as the "Outlook," "The Nation," "Current Opinion," and "Literary Digest," and is considered "good authority" on many of our current problems.

The broad experiences that were his while traveling in Russia, Armenia, Syria, Turkey, Greece, Palestine and Persia during the time that he did "Near East Relief" work, should enable him to give his audience some actual truths, as he knows them. Mr. Allen is one of the most able speakers on the program and every teacher who wishes to grasp the opportunity of getting some practical and worthwhile information, should hear his talk.

Dr. W. M. Gray

Dr. W. M. Gray, dean of school in the University of Chicago, Ill., will speak at the National Teachers Association, Oct. 14, Friday morning at 10:00 o'clock. His subject will be "The Levels of Teaching with Special Reference to Reading." In the afternoon at the elementary department program he will talk on "Teaching Pupils to Read Thoughtfully."

Dr. Gray has been a teacher in the rural schools, principal of elementary schools, and principal of the Training School at the Illinois State Normal University. He has also been an assistant education instructor and professor at the University of Chicago and since 1917 he has been dean of that school.

Dr. Gray is the author of several books such as: "Studies of the Elementary School Reading Through Standardized Tests," "Remedial Cases in Reading—Their Diagnosis and Treatment and Summary of Scientific Investigation in Reading."

Chas. A. Lee

State Superintendent Charles A. Lee has had a long and varied experience in school work, first as a teacher in the rural schools of Phelps County and then as a high school teacher and superintendent. During his fourth year of service as superintendent at Butler he was elected state superintendent.

Mr. Lee, as State Superintendent of schools, has gradually raised the qualifications for teachers. He has endeavored to bring the elementary and high school departments together and make them a single unit. Conceiving that public education is a preparation for citizenship he prepared a syllabi of courses in American Citizenship. He has been active in getting health education taught in all the schools.

ational inequalities within the state. Believing that the only way to bring equal educational advantages to all is to redistrict the state so as to open the way for modern school facilities in all districts.

Mrs. Helen Fields Fisher

Mrs. Helen Fields Fisher was born in Page County, Iowa. She taught in the Helena, Montana, schools under the supervision of Dr. Condon. She is a landscape architect and talked on landscape architects here in Maryville on one occasion. Her twenty-minute talk at the superintendents meeting in Dallas, Texas recently was one of the outstanding addresses of the convention. Mrs. Fisher has a charming personality and is a good thinker. She has written several volumes of beautiful poetry which appeal to everyone. She doesn't spend any time in thinking over these poems before writing them but as an idea comes to her she picks up her pen and writes.

Mrs. Fisher's home now is in Shenandoah, Iowa. She is a sister of Henry Fields, head of the Fields Seed Company of that place. She has given many talks over the radio on landscape gardening. Everyone should try to hear her speak as she always has a message of value.

Dr. W. P. Dearing

One of the foremost speakers of the meeting is Dr. W. P. Dearing, president of the Oakland City College, Oakland City, Indiana. Dr. Dearing has been with the college since 1895. He was dean of the college for eight years until elected president in 1903.

Dr. Dearing was ordained in the Baptist Church when he was nineteen. He is a widely known chautauqua lecturer and commencement speaker. He is a member of the State Advisory Committee on Teacher Training; a member of the State Council on Rural Education and since 1925 has been a member of the State Library and History Board. Dr. Dearing is also president of the Indiana State Teachers Association.

Dr. Livingston C. Lord

Dr. Livingston C. Lord, popular and widely known lecturer, and president of the Eastern Illinois State Teachers College, will give the main address Friday evening. Dr. Lord is active in N. E. A. affairs and is one of the outstanding educators in the United States today. He is dean of the Teacher College presidents of Illinois.

Miss DeLuce Praised for State Art Work

The College teachers of the Fine Arts Department of the State Association have been doing some valuable work with Miss Olive DeLuce of Maryville, as chairman, according to a letter received from the Missouri State Teachers Association. An art survey of the state is under headway, the findings of which will be available for the use of art teachers when it is finished. Plans for a state art organization with chapters in various towns and cities are being worked out.

The letter also stated that there was a circulating exhibit of art work from the different schools in the state in charge of Deborah Weisel at the State Teachers College, Springfield. Any schools interested in having the exhibit shown in their community should write Miss Weisel.

The letter mentioned too, that a new art course of study for elementary schools of the state was being prepared at our State University by Miss Triplett.

Freshman Dilemmas

An unidentified local man stopped one of us freshmen and asked us in kind but authoritative tones, "My good man, can you tell me why you are green at the top?" Our ever-ready "left" was restrained and our rising temper allayed when he continued thus: "because you have not yet quit growing" implying of course that the U. C.'s have discontinued their growth and are already withering. With these words he shuffled on down the street leaving us in a stupor which gradually merged into keen realization and appreciation.

Freshman Problems are indeed problematic but problems are tame in comparison to Freshman Dilemmas (backwards if you stutter).

Freshman Problems are more or less common in S. T. C., but Freshman Dilemmas are indeed something unusual.

For those who do not understand, a paragraph should be devoted to the clarification of the understanding of those who have misunderstood.

This unusual term does not apply to any of the prep's peculiarities of habit nor any species in his classification as some might imagine, but it is simply explained, an ordinary Freshman problem to the nth power; more specifically, a Freshman problem multiplied by a π , the product cubed, then divided by the divisor of the present political issue and the quotient stirred.

The high tide which prevailed on the S. T. C. campus Tuesday brought about at which we are striving to arrive in explanation.

A freshman boy and his little green cap were proceeding towards town from the College, after detouring via side exit and walk when suddenly a familiar gust of the gale hoisted the freshman's friend from his head and made away with it to "broader fields and pastures new," (in this instance, the campus) and settled upon the rolling green. The frosh dutifully, but unthoughtfully tread upon the campus in pursuit of his "fall" hat. Straightway he was called to a jerky halt and an about face in no uncertain tones by a husky upperclassman. Obediently he did so, followed by an attempted nod of recognition of authority on campus questions when more fire was breathed from his lusty throat, "Put on your green cap." Without a sassy word, the plebe again attempted to give pursuit to his wandering head gear when, "Keep off the campus" brought him to another staggering discontinuance of forward progress and a retraction of steps.

This story has no conclusion because there was no result possible. The semi-climax is here but the anti-climax is pending.

This is a true case of Freshman dilemma. There was nothing for the frosh to do but hesitate nor for the U. C. to do but glare.

And we think both end classes for the remainder of the day.

"Sam! ye're a barefaced liar."

"Wal—What you want me to do about it? Grow a mustache?"

—Georgia Cracker.

COLLEGE OATH
"We will never bring disgrace to this, our College by any act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the College. We will reverence and obey the College laws and do our best to inculcate a like respect and reverence in others. We will transmit this College to those who come after us, greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

The Teaching Profession
Take some dirt and you are likely to be offered a bonus for hauling it away. Take the same dirt and mix some brains with it and spread it over the sides of a house and you will receive three or four hundred dollars for it.

Mine a ton of iron ore and you may get a few dollars for it. Mix some brains with it and turn it into razor blades and you may receive a thousand or so dollars for it. Twist it into piano strings and you may hear the music of tens of thousands of dollars dropping into your treasury.

Education pays. But the educator wears shiny clothes and has difficulty in stretching a dollar to make ends meet. The teacher receives but meager reward for his share in the game.

If there were some way for the educator to levy a royalty on all the work of his students, there might be a larger justice in the world. The professor is too absentminded to look after the rewards.

The boy who tinkers with your old car gets better wages than the educator who develops and adjusts the mind of your youth. There is something away somewhere in the appraisal of values.

Possibly the law of supply and demand enters here as elsewhere. It seems to be operating in a quiet way. Young men and women are going into business instead of into the school room. Inferior teachers will likely result. The next generation will pay. Air and men rush into a vacuum. The teacher's desk will again be used but as a stepping stone into something more remunerative.

"Education pays, unless you settle down to be an educator," says the Martins Ferry Times.

The previous article was taken from the Educational Journal. We little realize the real comparison between the wage of the educator and of the brick layer until we see it contrasted in this form. However there is another way to look at this problem. We as teachers have a higher vision in doing our work than the mere gain of money; no teacher takes up her profession with the idea of getting rich. There is something higher and better in view, the knowledge that we are molding future America and the pleasure of knowing that we are doing something else. Always in the history of the world there has been a class of people who have donated their services to mankind with little or no pay and today the teachers are this tribe of service givers.

"Lefty" Davis Sarts as New Bearcat Coach

Long anticipated work on the new athletic field of the College was under way this week.

Grading of the tract just west of the gymnasium and extending up to the entrance to College Park has been begun by the firm of Shoemaker, Boyard, contractors. Two teams, a tractor and four men under Oliver Boyard are tearing out hedges and getting things in shape for the fast work the last of the week, when more men will be employed.

The grading of the field will be completed this fall, and it then will be allowed to "set" until spring. It is hoped that final completion will be in time of the annual track meet of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletics Association, scheduled to be held here.

Football games this fall will continue to be played on the old field in the rear of the main building. The track will be completed first at the new field. Specifications call for a quarter-mile oval, with a ten-inch excavation. It will have a six-inch bed of crushed and rolled rock, then a bed of straight cinders, rolled to six inches, and a top layer of one-third cinders and two-thirds clay or black loam, 4 inches deep.

The track will be curbed on both sides, with the curb level with the adjacent ground.

Plan Discussions on Athletics for Girls

During the coming Teachers meeting, there will be a demonstration of physical education work, suitable for rural, elementary and high school. There will also be a round table discussion on athletics for junior and senior high school girls.

The medical phase of the question is to be treated by Dr. Green.

The viewpoint of teachers in service is to be presented by Miss Roberta Cook, B. S. '25, teacher of physical education at Cameron, Mo., and other teachers of Northwest Missouri district who are handling athletics for girls.

This demonstration and discussion will be concluded in time for everyone who attends, to be assured a front seat at the football game.

Come In and Look Around

Critics Herald Miss Chalfant 2nd Jenny Lind

Famous Coloratura Soprano To Sing Here Next Wednesday Compared To Famous Swedish Nightingale.—Is Popular In Europe.

Believers in the occult sciences have expressed the opinion that Miss Lucille Chalfant, American coloratura soprano, who sings at the College next Wednesday evening is a reincarnation of the famous singer, Jenny Lind. That she resembles the Swedish nightingale is indisputable. Her face, in particular, with its clear cut profile bears close resemblance and there is something in her curling pale gold hair that calls to mind pictures of the Jenny Lind who conquered London and New York three quarters of a century ago.

A capacity house is expected for the Chalfant concert. Students will be admitted upon their major coupon and the general admission is $1.00. Reserved seats will be on sale at Kuehs Bros. Monday. Many teachers arriving here that evening for the Teachers' Meeting are expected to attend. Those who come by train or drive, will arrive here in time for the concert. Mail orders for tickets, accompanied by check or money order, are being filled for the out-of-town teachers and others who plan to hear Miss Chalfant.

From childhood Miss Chalfant has felt a kinship with Jenny Lind. She has lived over the trials and triumphs of her famous predecessor. She has read and studied every book she could get hold of dealing with the life and art of the Swedish soprano. Jenny Lind herself, rose from the chorus. Here is another coincidence, or is it just another proof that the soul of a great artist never dies, but comes to earth in a new body?

It is Miss Chalfant's belief that the spirit of Jenny Lind has been guiding her, helping her over the obstacles that lie in her path, giving her inspiration when she is on the stage. In perfecting her vocal technique, in getting clarity and brilliance into her high notes, in gaining that sweetness of tone that brings tears to the eyes, Miss Chalfant has felt the presence of a guiding spirit. Her throat was formed by nature for agility, for great heights and for round sonorities, but in some mysterious way a soulfulness, a depth of emotion reminiscent of past days has crept into her singing.

When on the stage, Miss Chalfant feels like a new and different person. It is as if the shadow of Jenny Lind is at her elbow encouraging, directing and inspiring.

An International Star.

Famous in Europe and America, in opera as well as in concert Lucille Chalfant might justly be called an international artist. Starting her professional career in a musical comedy she has climbed the ladder of fame through vaudeville and stardom in Broadway revues to the higher plane of grand opera and the concert stage. In her first public appearance she had been engaged to sing and dance in the ensemble of a Pacific coast version of "The High Cost of Loving," but before the premier she was given a leading part. The manager had accidentally heard her singing a cadenza from an operatic aria during a rehearsal and asked her to interpolate a little grand opera into the production. San Francisco newspapers spoke of her as "Tetrazzini's successor."

Vaudeville next attracted the attention of the youthful coloratura soprano and later she was starred on Broadway in Ned Wayburn's Capital Revue and in the Greenwich Village Follies. Ambitious to succeed in the world of serious music Miss Chalfant gave up her career as a light opera singer at the height of her fame and studied with Madame Martha Brarud. Later in France and in Italy she spent many months of hard work before she sang professionally. Her debut took place in Paris at the Gaite-Lyrique Theatre. She interpreted the role of Gilda in Verdi's "Rigoletto," in a cast including members of the Metropolitan Opera Company. The story of her success was cabled across the Atlantic and announced on the front pages of leading American newspapers. In Paris she was hailed as the operatic "find" of the year.

Gives European Concerts.

Miss Chalfant also sang in concert in Paris, notably achieving sensational success at an international memorial concert there given for the benefit of the French and Belgian wounded soldiers. Here she was personally felicitated by the President of France and many other high officials.

From the French capital Miss Chalfant went to other important music centers. A season of gala performances in Italy followed. Then came engagements in many theatres in France, Belgium, Germany and Holland.

One of her most successful appearances was at the famous Mozart Festival at Baden Baden with Josef Strakosky conducting. For the first time in nearly a quarter of a century in Germany the role of the Queen of Night in "The Magic Flute" with its numerous high F's was sung in the original key which she interpreted it.

A Pure Natural Voice.

Miss Chalfant's voice is a pure natural coloratura. It is not one of those "built" voices, but soars easily to F above high C. While she has appeared in some of the lighter branches of musical entertainment, her singing has been confined almost exclusively to high class music. Even in vaudeville she sang operatic arias and the classics.

From the beginning of her career Miss Chalfant has specialized in music of a florid type, the songs that Jenny Lind sang and the difficult airs that are barred except to a singer with a very high flexible voice.

Working for Ph. D.

Miss Isabel Bliss, who taught English here during the summer 1923, is now at the University of Chicago, where she is working toward her Doctor's degree in English. Miss Bliss has been teaching in Saint Mary's Hall, Fairbault, Minn., an Episcopal school for girls.

High School Notes

Clearmont High School

The Clearmont High School went to Skidmore Friday with just lots of pep and a feeling of sure victory. Did we win? Well, I'll say we did, by the long score of 20 to 15.

Oh, yes, the pep squad consisting of twenty-four girls, carried the game along with their peppy yells, songs, and good sportsmanship. The girls have a real pep squad, and carry out the basketball colors, by wearing a uniform dress of black skirts and white waists.

The next game the boys play is with Harmony, Friday, Oct. 7, in the Clearmont Gym.

The Senior Class organized a Four Square Literary Society. The motto "Forward Ever, Backward Never" was decided upon. Their colors are purple and gold. The following officers were elected: president, Harry Jenkins; vice-president, Charles Fenton; secretary, Hollis Smith; assistant secretary, Velma Mier; treasurer, Beulah Skud; Sergeant at arms, Milo Porterfield. During the school year, programs, emphasizing the four phases of every day life, morally, physically, mentally and spiritually, will be given the last Friday of each month.

The Junior High School students have organized a Health Club. They have drawn up a set of health rules. They intend to live and work by. The Health Inspector seems to be the most prominent officer. He will inspect every club members each day. Two health programs will be given each month.

Maitland High School

The following girls are officers of the club: Mona Maxwell, president; Lorene Warner, vice-president; Lucille Mitchell, secretary. The first program of the club will be held October 21. An operetta, "Bits O' Marney," has been selected for public performance sometime during the first half of the year. The first game of our basketball season took place on our uptown, outdoor court on Friday evening, September 30, when our boys met Bellevue in a hard fought game. At the end of the first half the score stood 5 to 3 in Maitland's favor. The halves tied, however, before the end and Bellevue won 10 to 9. Practically all of our squad this year are new men, our team of last year having been lost through graduation. Our boys go to Forest City for their next game. They are training hard and hope to bring home a victory.

Martha Bird and Wayne Richardson, our new yell leaders, were on the side line at the game Friday with a peppy squad of "rooters."

Why are you looking at me so intently? What do you see?
Nothing.

Did you hear about the man who was eating horse meat? Yes, and about the time he got a piece of the meat in his throat, somebody hollered when; of course the meat stopped, and the man choked to death.

Is your son going to college this term?
He hasn't said, but he has bought a second-hand ukelele.

Astronomy Class Goes Star Gazing

Miss Helwig, instructor of astronomy took her class out Thursday evening to give them some practical information many of the largest stars and planet.

The wind was high and strong and prevented the use of the telescope, but many of the largest stars and planet were quite visible without the aid of the telescope. The class learned many new facts concerning the stars and their location, which gives astronomy a new and appreciated value.

It is the usual custom of Miss Helwig to take her class on observation trips once each week but because of the cloudy weather, observation trip have been impossible. She is hoping for some clear nights the following week.

HOW TO GET A COON COAT

Go to north woods. Prepare Christmas dinner. Invite all the raccoons in north woods. Secure a member of the Miami Chamber of Commerce to make an after-dinner speech. Coons will realize that they are wasting their time in the woods. Will decide to go to Florida. Will borrow money and leave skins as security as they won't need them in Florida anyway. Coons will go broke in Florida. Won't be able to redeem skins. Use some of the skins for your coon coat. Sell others at big profit. Make big money and get coon coat also.

21 Schools to Play in N. W. Mo. Orchestra

District Organization of 60 Pieces To Give Two Concerts During Teachers' Meeting.—Rehearsal At Gym Friday Morning.

A sixty piece orchestra made up of the best musicians from twenty-one high schools of Northwest Missouri will appear in two concerts during the course of the Northwest Missouri Teachers Meeting here next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The schools have officially been entered and the music is being sent by the director, H. O. Hickernell, to the schools and it will be placed in the hands of the players in order that they may practice before coming here. Assignment of chairs in the orchestra has been made.

The first rehearsal of the orchestra will take place at the College gymnasium at 9 o'clock Friday morning, October 14, and all members are urged to be there promptly.

The schools taking part and the instruments each will send follow:

St. Joseph Central: violin, cello, three flutes; New Hampton: violin, bass and drum; St. Joseph Benton: violin; Trenton: cello; Maitland: cornet and drum; Edgerton: violin, cornet and trombone; Hopkins: violin and cornet; Smithville: violin and bass; Chillicothe: violin and clarinet; Boekow: three violins and alto horn; Bethany: four violins, two cellos and a bass; Rock Port: two violins and a flute; Mound City: three violins, two cellos and a bass; Princeton: cornet, trombone, tuba and baritone; Orrick: bass and trombone; Hale: violin and clarinet; Fayette: two violins; Barnard: two violins; Holt: clarinet; Stewartville: violin and drum.

Instruments have not been chosen from Maryville High School as yet but will be selected later on filling in places where there will be need of balance for the orchestra.

The musical directors of the College believe this is going to work successfully and are interested in the experiment of drafting the best musicians over this section of the state into a one great orchestra.

The last bulletin sent out by Charles R. Gardner, of the College Conservatory of Music, reads:

"Following the receipt of lists from high school orchestra directors of their members who will be available to play in the Northwest Missouri High School orchestra Oct. 13 to 15, the personnel of this district organization has been completed. In making these selections those in charge have kept in mind, first, balance of the orchestra as to instruments, and second, greatest possible representation of schools.

"Please send us by return mail the names of the players from your school so we may make up the personnel of the orchestra. First rehearsal of the orchestra will take place at the college gymnasium at 9 o'clock Friday morning, October 14, and all members should be there promptly. Upon receipt of the names of your participating students we will notify them where they will room and procure their meals in Maryville, both to be furnished by the college."

Teachers of Fifty Years Ago

Teachers' conventions were few and far between fifty years ago when this bank, the oldest in Nodaway County, opened its doors for the first day's business. But teachers then, as now, were rendering to Northwest Missouri unselfish, sacrificing, and painstaking service in developing youth.

We have watched with approving eye and have helped all we could in the development of our educational institutions. We heartily endorse your Teachers' Association in all of its activities.

We, too, have been teachers in a small way, constantly urging the development of the thrift habit. We have strived to build character in the boys and girls who visit our bank by telling them of the honorable and honest ways of conducting their business in the battle for financial independence.

The teachers have a tremendous responsibility in developing a staunch, stable, and thrifty citizenry for tomorrow. It is our sincere desire that this institution be used in every way possible in this great work.
